THE SKOLFIELD GENEALOGY.

Compiled by Rev. Chas. N. Sinnett, Fertile, Minnesota.

The name of this sturdy family is spelled in various ways in the earlier and later records, as Scofield, Scholfield, Scovill, &c., &c., The family history runs back to Lancashire, England, where the name is first found as De Skolfield in the year I2I5. The family became numerous, and was everywhere famous for its brave and noble deeds. The spelling of the name gradually settled down to Scofield. Under this name the Heralds at Arms, on their Visitation to Lancashire in I592, confirmed the Scofield Arms. The description of this is found in Fairbairn's "Crests" as " anciently borne" by the ancesortors off the Scofields who were then in Lancashire. This record is in the Harald's College in London. "Scofield Hall, " at Rochedale, Lancashire, was in existence until I846, and a cut of it is printed in the Rochedale History., which may be seen in the British Museum of London.

From time to time the members of this old Scofield Family, with varinous spellings of their name, came to America. By the records of these it will be plainly seen that the family has ever been one of strong and helpful character.

The following sketch of the Skolfields of Brunswick, Me, and its vicinity, was furnished by Miss Abbie M. Martin of Brunswick, Me. : "Thomas Skolfield, the Ancestor of the Maine Skolfields, was an officer in the army of King William in I690, when King James was driven out of Ireland. This General Skolfield remained in England, and the King gave him a large tract of land . which, by many, is said to be the broad acres on which the city of Dublin now stands."

This Ancestor ,General Thomas Skolfield, had four children of who we give records as of the Second Generation.

(2nd generation) Thomas Skolfield born in Ireland in I70I; died at Brunswick, Me., Jan 6 (or June 6) I796, in "He received a very liberal education in Dublin University, and was of the same noble, energetic nature which has ever characterized his long line of descendants. In I730 he came to Boston, Mass., with the Orr Family., and resided in that city for a number of years., teaching Law and Latin. About I742 he came with the Orrs to what was then the District of Maine. Dr Wheeler in his History of Brunswick, Topsham, and Harpswell, Me., says that he located on Lot I2 at Brunswick, Me., in I739. He settled on what was afterwards known as the 'Peter Woodward Place,' on the 250 acres of land which he and the Orrs had purchased. Thomas Skolfield was always very prominent in the affairs of Brunswick, Me. On May 22nd, I777, he was an officer to receive recognizances. In I779 he was ~~he was~~ on the Committee to affix prices to the commodities which were sold in the town. Early in the Revolutionary War, and throughout its progress, he was on many Committees to draw up patriotic Resolutions. He was Town Clerk of Brunswick, Me., I752--I76I; I764 ~~I764~~, I764 and I765. He served on the Board of Selectmen for 26 years, and for the greater part of this time he was Chairman of the Board. His dates of service were: I744--I749; I752--I754;; I756--I762;; I765--I767;; I772--I773;; I775--I782."

ability and persistency which marked his entire life of more than 60 years, he steadfastly followed his chosen profession, each year establishing a higher reputation and more extensive business connections in the large American cities, until he became one of the best shipbuilders and owners in the country. He constructed upwards of 60 ships, most of them of large size and known for their beautiful models and thoroughness of construction. Most of them had a long sea service. They were all highly rated. The benefits accruing to Brunswick and Harpswell, Me., for the large sums paid for wages and building materials was almost beyond description. George Skolfield was of a kind and hospitable nature, fond of his family and friends, and exceedingly liberal towards all worthy objects of need and charity. But he had a thorough hatred for anything looking like oppression or cant. One illustration will show this very clearly. While engaged in the building of a very fine ship of 1,000 tons at Harpswell, Me., the town insisted on taxing her before she was completed, against his firm protest. So he at once built a new residence a short distance from the old which he sold in, but located in the town of Brunswick, but thus transferring his large tax of many hundreds of dollars per year to Brunswick. He died at 86 years, in the full possession of all his faculties, without a single regret at leaving the scene of his many labors, and truthfully saying, 'My days of usefulness are past and it is better that the old, worn--out body should be laid to rest.' After his death his famous shipyard was carried on by his son, George F. Skolfield, in connection with his brothers, Capt. Samuel Skolfield and Isaac L Skolfield, two highly--esteemed citizens of Brunswick, Me. They, during the depression in the shipbuilding industry, built only such ships as they owned and put into commission on their own account, thus becoming the most extensive ship owners in their part of Maine. At the time of his death Master George Skolfield was one of the ablest men of Brunswick, Me. It was his great delight to have his house full of company, and he was never in better spirits than when his friends fairly over-run his rooms. A man of strong impulses and prejudices, he never meant to be unjust. He was decided; firm in his convictions, and sternly resolute in what he thought to be his duty. What he did was done in a singleness of purpose worthy of all imitation. We make no claim to perfection in this, our friend, but we record the crowning glory of his long life, diversified with his intercourse with all manner of men; his passing away with never a man to question his scrupulous honesty in all of his dealings with his fellow men. He was Selectman of Harpswell, Me., in 1820, and he and his wife were highly--esteemed members of the Brunswick, Me., Congregational Church." After his father's death he and his brothers carried on this work very successfully until I884. They built wooden ships, including some of I7--hundred tons, and some of these vessels were long in active service, plying between differt home and foreign ports. His home was one of the finest in the country, his long experience in shipbuilding having cultivated a natural taste for architecture, and giving him ideas as unique as they were beautiful when they were put into practical expression. in a dwelling house. His eminence as a business man was universally recognized, and he was a Director of the Pejepscot and Union Banks of Brunswick, Me., for several years. He cast his first vote in the ranks of the Whig party, but he afterwards became a Democrat. Though never an aspirant for office, he served for several years as a Selectman of Harpswell, Me., beginning this service in I863. In I884 he represented his District in the Maine Legislature. He attended and generously supported the Brunswick Me., Congregational Church, and was highly esteemed in that Parish. He was a man of rare intelligence, quick wit, and of a joyful disposition. (5th generation) Captain Samuel Skolfield b [illegible], Me., Sept 15, 1867; d at Brunswick, [illegible] June 12, 1916. Obituary;" He was the oldest man in Brunswick and the last of the oldtime shipmasters of this vicinity. He had a long and honorable record as a Commander and as a business man. It was one of his hobbies never to allow a business man to send him a bill, always preferring to pay for goods and work in advance., as soon as they goods were delivered and work done. In his life as Sea Captain of 39 years he never lost a vessel. His narrowest escape from disaster was in 1856 on the voyage from N.Y. City to Havre by way of Mobile. Then off the French coast his ship, the Rising Sun, ran into a terrible storm; the ship was thrown on her beam ends, and for a time the crew seriously considered the advisability of abandoning the ship. The Captain and his wife, who was making her first voyage with him, refused to leave the ship and the crew decided to stand by them. After a long, hard fight against the elements the ship was brought into port. In token of their appreciation of his succes ful bravery the underwriters presented the Captain and his wife with handsome gold watches, suitably inscribed. Others who were interested gave Capt. Skolfield a silver speaking trumpet. As a boy Samuel Skolfield worked in the famous Skolfield ship yard at N. Harpswell, Me., of which his father was in charge. Late in his teens he shipped under Captain Jake Merryman and rose rapidly. Aug 8, 1850, at the age of 22 years, he took command of his first vessel, the ship Dublin. He was transferred to the Roger Stewart, and then made his memorable voyage in the ship Rising Sun. Some time after this he commanded the Brig Virginia Dare, which was named after the first white child born in America. In 1860 he took charge of the ship Lydia Skolfield, named for his mother., and successfully commanded her for 7 years. He was then Captain of the ship George Skolfield, which was named for his father. In 1875 he took command of the Ship Samuel Skolfield Ist.. In 1884 commanded the Samuel Skolfield, 2nd, and made his last voyage in her, and retired from the seafaring life in 1890. After that he was a constant resident of Brunswick, Me. He had been a member of the Brunswick Club since 1900. He was a staunch Democrat, but, while he was greatly interested in the affairs of the town and nation, he never cared to run for a public office. For many years he was a Director of the Androscoggin Bank. He was indeed a wonderful man. His memory was bright and clear to the very last. He was beloved and honored by all who knew him. Much has been written of his old ship, the Sam Skolfield"

He became a successful shipmaster, commanding, among other vessels, the Ship General Dunlap and the Bark Sarah Ann, which was named for his wife who accompanied him on his voyages and remained his devoted companion until his voyage of life was closed. After retiring from the active marine life Captain Skolfield lived at Topsham, Me., and was a worthy and valued citizen there, commanding the confidence and respect of all who knew him. During this period he was engaged in the banking business in Brunswick, Me., being Director of the Pejepscot National Bank, and for many years its President. He also found recreation on a farm of ancestral acres at Mere Point, near Brunswick, Me. In 1862 and 1874 he represented his constituency in the Maine Legislature. He was a true friend of education and helped in the endowment of a scholarship at Colby University., the benefits of which have been greatly enjoyed by worthy students. Modest and retiring, he was the possessor of rare qualities of mind and heart. Man of clear perception, sound judgement, and of strict integrity. But it was in his home that he was best known and enjoyed. His genial Christian spirit lighted up his dwelling and made it the abode of peace. The kind hospitality and generosity of his home will be among the lasting memories of the large circle of friends whose pleasure and privilege it was to enter it. In 1862 he united with the Baptist Church of Topsham, Me., and he was ever after an active worker in it, and its very efficient Deacon. He was a generous supporter of this Church. Obituary: " The death of Elbridge G. Simpson ended a long life and removes a citizen who was formerly one of the most active men in the industrial life of Brunswick. His health had been failing for the last few years, and for some time he had been confined to his house. A large number of the representative citizens of Brunswick attende his funeral. Mr. Simpson was the last survivor of the oldtime Master Shipbuilders of Brunswick. He built 16 vessels on the Androscoggin River, one of the a ship of 687 tons, named the Humphrey Purinton. The keel of this craft was laid on the Topsham, Me., shore near the end of the Short Bridge, and her bows rit projected over the Main Street. The railroad bridge was built before the ship was completed, and, after she was launched, it was considerable of a problem to get the craft through the bridge. It was at first thought that a span of the bridge could be raised sufficiently to allow the ship to pass, but this was found to be dapractill impractible, and the railroad compay excavated a canal through the ledge on the Topsham side to make a channel for the ship. Another ship of about 500 tons , and a bark of 400 tons, were among the larger vessels built by Mr. Simpson. The first one was built at New Thurf, the last one , a brig for the California trade, was also constructed there. This was the Orient, and it is the only one of the fleet now afloat. Mr. Simpson remembered when the shipyards were strung out all along the river; there were two in Topsham, Me. others at the Narrows; and a large one at Merrymeeting Park owned by Gen. John C.Humphreys. Besides the 16 vessels built here there was another that he constructed on the Pacific Coast, and he also built barges on Lake Champlain for the Burlington railroad. He took his crew of men from Brunswick, Me., to Lake Champlain, and his contracts netted him a handsome sum. He was born on the farm above Rock Hill, Brunswick. After giving up the shipbuilding he went into the coal business, and also had a grocery store, where he did a fine business."

When the Maine Water Company acquired this plant Mr.Simpson continued as its Superintendent for a number of years. He then opened a machine shop; later on he became Superintendent of the Bowdoin College buildings and grounds. He had a marked genius for mechanical construction, and for a few years he gave instruction to a group of students in shop-room work. (5th) Asa Mead Simpson b Rocky Hill, Brunswick, Me., Feb 20, 1824; Resided Pacific Ave, San Francisco, California. "He left Brunswick, Me in 1849, or 1851 , and settled at Stockton, California , when that place had not more than 4,000 people. He has always maintained an interest in his native town of Brunswick, Me., and just after the California earthquake he came back to visit his old friends and acquaintances. The earthquake and fire which followed it destroyed his furniture factory, lumber yard and office buildings, at a los of $ 350,000 . His fine residence escaped. He had been engaged in the lumber business for more than half a century at San Francisco and was called 'The Lumber King of the Pacific Coast.' He has assisted materially in the development of the Pacific Coast, and is reckoned as one of the wealthiest of the Californians. He owns the Simpson Lumber Company, the Northwest Lumber Company, and a a large fleet of ships and as well as a long stretch of water-front property in San Francisco. Capt Simpson runs packet lines to [illegible], Russia, Japan, China, &c. He also builds vessels. Outside his lumber and shipping interests he has vast holdings in real estate and in the banking business. Some years ago his son Lewis went to Oregon and built the town which he owns, has 2,000 people, contains woolen a woolen mill and other industries, and is equipped with the usual municipal improvements. A prominent paper says of Capt. Asa Simpson, 'He never wastes any money in strikes, and all differences between him and his men are amicably settled. He carried the details of an immense business, involving many large saw mills, factories, forest camps, &c., on land, and fleets of vessels at sea, and, with the aid of a well-selected staff of officers, daily directs the work of over 5,000 contented people in Oregon, Washington, and California, without the assistance of syndicates and railways combinations, and all this when he is past 80 years of age.' During his boyhood he learned the joiner's trade, became a ship joiner, and had charge of the cabin work of the ship Humphrey Purinton, which was built by his brother . He then went to California around the Horn in a ship of which he was part owner, accompanied by his brother Lewis Simpson, who afterwards lost his life at Coos Bay, Oregon while attempting to save a woman and her child from drowning. He first went to work in the mines, and six months later he chartbought an old, abandoned vessel and took a contract for cutting and driving piles on the San Francisco water--front. Later he bought an old steam mill, took it to oregon, and engaged in the milling and lumbering business."

Married Sophia Smith, who is deceased. "She was a woman of unusual qualities. a woman who was constantly thinking of others, and who gave not only material assistance but by sympathy and loving help wherever it was needed, have been one of those rare Christian characters which do influence others that the fragrant memory of her life will linger with those who knew her, like that of a beautiful flower, albeit, but never forgotten. She passed away very peacefully, surrounded by the members of her family. Her only surviving sister, Mrs. Meacham of Racine, Wis., was with her in her last sickness."

(5th) Andrew Whitehouse Simpson b on the Rocky Hill farm Brunswick, Me., July 15 1831 Will at 12 Oak St., Stockton, California. In the year of 21 years he left Brunswick, Me and went to California by way of Nicaragua. He was very sick on the way. Reached California in Nov., 1851, and settled in Stockton, and was soon it grew from 4,000 people to 24,000. Engaged in the lumber business with George Gray; firm Simpson and Gray, the oldest in California. In 1912 he sold out this property, and came to Brunswick, Me. to visit his daughter, Mrs. Rogers, who had been travelling in Europe for two years. He greatly enjoys visiting his old native home. Although he has never been a candidate for public offices Mr.Simpson has for years been actively interested in politics; also an ardent Republican; a great admirer of Theodore Roosevelt. During his visit at Brunswick, Me., he saw a very promising spring pig owned by Freeman Lapham; when it weighed 414 pounds it was killed, salted, and sent to Mr. Simpson from the store of F.O.Webb and Co. so said." I have seen California develope, and Stockton has grown from a small village to a prosperous and thriving city, surrounded by one of the largest, richest valleys in the state, for the San Joaquin Valley raises the finest fruits, grains and flowers. My first vote was for General Winfield Scott in 1852, and then for the Republican President, John C. Fremont, 'Pathfinder.' I have never missed a Presidential vote in the 6 ensuing years. I was in the lumber business 58 years."

"Ellis Percy Skolfield of the battleship Michigan, U.S.N. now in Cuban Waters, where he made the record in target practice. He fired four shots and made four hits in less than 28 seconds, thereby making an unparrelled record. He is truly a truly distinguished young gun-pointer of only 21 years. He attended the country schools of Harpswell, Me., for a short time; later attended the public schools of N.Scituate, Conn R.I., for 17 weeks. When about 16 or 17 years old he went to resice in Portland, Me., with his parents, and, upon taking examinations, he was admitted to the second year's class of the Portland high school; he left this school just before completing the last year of his course and entered the Naval Training Station at Newport, R.I., where he was placed in charge of 50 men when he had been enrolled but a week. In less than four months he had won the silver eagle on his sleeve, an honor which is seldom obtained without four years of service. In 7 months he was promoted to the battleship Michigan, where he was soon made a gun pointer and last winter he had charge of 22 men in the trouble with Vera Cruz. In breaking the world record in target practice Gunner Skolfield gave the E. to the battleship Michigan, and his achievement also meant $42.00 more in money to each of the gunner's crew. This is Skolfield's fourth year in the Michigan, and, though it is not known if he intends to enlist, it would seem that a brilliant future awaits a young man whose rise has been so rapid and whose record is so remarkable."
